

Instructions for Authors (continued)

Video Clips

Arthroscopy invites authors to submit video clips to be published on the Journal's Web site. Video clips may be submitted as free-standing Short Reports or they may be submitted as illustrations to accompany an article that the author is submitting for publication. All video clips will be subject to peer review.

Copyright

Copyright to all video clips published on the Journal's Web site will be held by the Arthroscopy Association of North America. When submitting a video clip, each coauthor must sign a form expressly transferring copyright in the event that the video clip is accepted for publication on the Journal's Web site. Copies of this form are available online in the current issue at www.arthroscopyjournal.org and the form also appears in each print issue of the Journal. Peer review of video clips will not proceed until signed copyright releases have been received by the Editorial Office.

Video Clips must not exceed 1 minute in length or 5 MB in file size. Videos must be submitted in either a QuickTime or MPEG format. Authors who want their videos accessible in a streaming format must also provide either a single SureStream file or three uniquely named single-rate clips (28.8, 56, T1) with a SMIL file to list the bandwidth choices. Video clips must meet production quality standards to be published on the Web—with no modifications or editing by the Editorial Office. The Journal will accept only video submissions that meet the Journal's formatting and image quality requirements. Image editing and proper formatting are the author's responsibility.

Video clips accepted for publication will be posted to the Journal's Web site in nonstreaming QuickTime or MPEG format for optimal image quality and also in a streaming video format for those who prefer faster downloading.

For detailed instructions on capturing, digitizing, saving, and submitting videos by ftp, please see the Artwork Instructions at Elsevier's Author Gateway site (<http://authors.elsevier.com>).