The American Orthopaedic Association~Kellogg Leadership Series Module Three will be held July 8-10, 2005. Module Three emphasizes the use of leadership skills in organizational governance, on formal and informal levels (positioning for power, becoming an outstanding leader, crisis management). This module will help you set your new skills in motion as you continue to achieve leadership positions within orthopaedics and beyond. For more information or to register for Module Three, visit the AOA Web site at www.aoassn.org or contact AOA Headquarters at info@aoassn.org or at 847-318-7330.

Fifth International Congress on Peer Review and Biomedical Publication will be held September 15-17, 2005 at the Fairmont Hotel, Chicago, Illinois. JAMA and BMJ invite abstracts for this congress. Following the successful four previous congresses, the fifth congress will provide a forum for the presentation and discussion of new research on peer review and scientific publication. Abstracts on any aspect of editorial peer review, scientific publication, and the dissemination of scientific information will be considered. Abstracts that summarize new research and findings will be given priority. For more information and instructions for preparing and submitting abstracts, please contact Annette Flanagan, JAMA, 515 N. State St, Chicago, IL 60610.
